

WORLD PRAISES EDERLE FOR FEAT

Messages Rain Congratulations On Girl Swimmer

(Continued from Page 2)
grandmother, near Stuttgart, Germany.

"Feeling Fine"

"I am feeling very fine—not a bit lame—and not the least bit the worse for the experience," she said today as, the heroine of the moment, she read 200 telegrams and cablegrams of congratulations which awaited her when she awoke at 8 a. m.

Fresh as a daisy after only six hours sleep.

One of the congratulatory wires was from the Argentine girl swimmer Lillian Harrison. Another was from Henry Sullivan of Boston, the first American to swim the Channel.

Miss Ederle plans to return to Cape Griz this afternoon, and then go to Germany with her father and sister.

"The policeman laughed."

The American girl showed the strain of the remarkable swim when she came back to Dover. She was pale as she walked to the hotel supported by her father, Henry (Pop) Ederle, and Helmy, the Egyptian, who trained with her and accompanied her on the tug and in the water.

Praised by Rival

"Pop" did not say how he had fared financially as a result of his daughter's success, but he is believed to have lacked the confidence to bet heavily and win. It is understood that his hopes to make a fortune by betting on Gertrude's success failed to materialize because he asked odds of 20 to 1 against her, whereas the best counter offer was 4 to 1, which he turned down.

Lillian Cannon, Baltimore girl, who has lost her chance to be the first woman to cross the channel, is one of several persons who make up the "Ederle party," on which the eyes of England are centered today, and which is here in this seaport town. Lillian has hearty praise for her New York friend who has taken the honor coveted by many women.

Father Was Sure 'Trudie' Would Win

(Continued from page 2)

bad predictions, but "pop" roared his protests.

"The hell she can't swim dot Channel," he sputtered in pardonable rage. "The ones who say dot she can't don't know my Trudie."

When Lloyds in London suggested that the betting ought to be 50 to 1 against her, "Pop" grabbed

EXCURSIONS

SUNDAY ON THE HUDSON
$1.25
ROUND TRIP

A Week's Entertainment
Crowded Into a Day
Newburgh-Beacon, $1.25 Round Trip
Go up inclined railway at Mt. Beacon.
Casino, Dancing. See Washington's Headquarters at Newburgh.

Sunset Park, $1.00 Round Trip
Amusements, Dancing.

AN ALL-DAY SAIL
POUGHKEEPSIE
Seventy-five miles through the most picturesque part of the Hudson and return
$1.65

STR. BENJ. B. ODELL
DANCING MUSIC
RESTAURANT, LUNCHROOM.
Steamer lvs. Franklin St., 9:10 A. M.;
129th St., 9:50 A. M.
CENTRAL HUDSON LINE

a boat, sped to London and smacked $22,000 on the desk in front of a broker.

"Get dot covered at your 50 to -," he roared.

"You wrote a story that I wouldn't make it this year," Trudie remarked to the writer in Paris. "But, oh boy, how I'm going to make you eat that," and she almost floored us with a husky swing on the back.

When it was explained at Lloyds, however, that their insurance rates against Gertrude swimming the Channel had been fixed at only 5 to 1, "pop" pulled back his money.

KNEW GERTIE WOULD MAKE IT, SAYS SWIMMER'S MOTHER

HIGHLANDS, N. J., Aug. 7.—"I feel that I am the happiest mother in the world," Mrs. Gertrude Ederle, mother of Gertrude Ederle, successful Channel swimmer, said at her home here, after she had been told by newspapermen that her daughter had reached England.

"I knew she was going to make it all the time," Mrs. Ederle continued. "She would have made it in faster time if it hadn't been for the tide."

Mrs. Ederle was calm all day and several times expressed confidence that Gertie would swim the Channel. She appeared confident her daughter would come to no harm.

"I didn't even know Getrie had started until the newspaper men told me," she revealed. "Her father is with her. I expect a cablegram some time today."

Asked if she knew whether Mr. Ederle had made a wager she would make the crossing, Mrs. Ederle said: "I don't know a thing about it."

How many people actually have halitosis (unpleasant breath)?

Read what dentists have to say about this:

EVERY reader of Listerine advertising knows about halitosis (unpleasant breath), that insidious thing that not even your best friends discuss with you.

Yet there are still a few "doubting Thomas" folks who think halitosis is only a state of mind.

Out of simple curiosity we put this question up to a carefully selected list of dentists—1000 of them—and in a letter asked them the following:

Do you ever use Listerine, in self-defense, in the mouth of a patient troubled with halitosis, unpleasant breath?

Please answer if you use it this way (1) Frequently, (2) Occasionally, or (3) Never.

Four hundred and forty replied as follows:

83% said "Frequently"
15% said "Occasionally"
Only 2% said "Never."

Now, what human being meets halitosis at closer range, face to face, than the dentist? And who would be a better judge of this condition—and how to combat it—than the dentist?—Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, U. S. A.

LISTERINE

—puts you on the safe and polite side

Special Note

Well—it worked!
For quite a while we challenged people to try Listerine Tooth Paste. Sales now show that when they try it they stick to it!

LARGE TUBE—25 CENTS

Special Note